FRIDAY, - - - MAY 23, 1856

The Kansas Commission are hard at work, gathering up testimony as to the disturbances in that region. It is so far, all ex parte, and confirms the news that has been reported and exaggerated for a year past, in all the anti-Democratic papers. At some of the voting places, the testimony is that men from Missouri voted in large numbers. We don't hear of anybody killed, or that anybody suffered bodily harm; but the border ruffians, they are called, were armed, swore a good deal, threatened Abolitionists, and drank hugely of bad whisky. The other side is not heard yet; and from the character of the Commission, it will not be heard, perhaps; but there is nothing new brought to light. All this was shown before the Committee on Territories, at Washington, and stated in the report made by Douglas to the Senate. These outrages only affected the election of six or seven of the candidates for the Kansas Legislature, and they were set aside by Reeder himself, and another election held. In fact, the usual means to correct such things were resorted to; but the Legislature of the Territory was not affected by these lawless acts, as to its legal character. Against the election of the mass of its members, nothing is alleged. It cannot be pretended that Wm. H.'s election to Congress is invalidated; for he got nearly all the votes polled.

Granting the outrages alleged, at what the remedy? Nullification and revolution?

If the regular operations of the laws of the Territory and of the federal government were inadequate to redress such grievances, and afford security against them thereafter, then it would be time to consider the question of revolution. As it is, this open rebellion against the recognized authority of the Territory, and the laws of the United States, is treason, and must be treated as such. It is folly to suppose that the people of the United States will support open resistance to law on such pretences. The rebels will find no support in the sober second thought of the people. When legal and peaceable means of redress have failed, after a fair trial, a resort to force will find sympathy; but when men emigrate to a Territory to rebel against the regular operations of a government established there, and carry their weapons along for the purpose, they deserve the penalty that the law will mete out to such cases. There is no doubt but the actual residents of Kansas will have a fair opportunity to vote their sentiments, and that, too, at an early day. It is absurd to suppose that these disturbances will last long. Men will tire of such unprofitable operations. There must be peace and justice in Kansas; her people must be allowed to vote, unmolested, their own sentiments; and we have no hesitation in saying, that this right will be secured to them. We should never consent to admit Kansas as a State into this Union, with a constitution adopted under a reign of terror, no matter whether it were a free or a slave State constitution. When the present excitement passes away, the blame of these disturbances will be laid where it belongs, at the door of outside intermeddlers, who adopted extraordinary measures to fill Kansas with Abolition voters. No such disturbances in a territory ever happened before, because no such reprehensible means to carry out a party purpose were ever adopted before. Let those who adopted such means account to the world for the consequences. Others are not guilty, who adopted lawless means to counteract insidious efforts to their injury; but wise men will estimate the provocation to a wrong, and ascribe the chief share of the guilt to the right party.

Grant all that the factious allege, as to fraudulent voting in Kansas, and it furnishes no apology for the Abolition party there. There are no wrongs alleged that are without a remedy. If outrages have been perpetrated, and the guilty have escaped unpunished, it is no more than what has happened a thousand times before. There were not half the outrages perpetrated in all Kansas; those that were perpetrated in this city on the sixth of August last. There were no more votes suppressed than were suppressed here; there were no murders by wholesale, nor house-burning, nor roasting of men and women, there were here; and yet who proposes resistance to the law, or revolution? Time, and the sober second thought, will dispose of the authors of such crimes, and their deeds along with them. It will be so in Kansas; and this resistance to law, on the pretence that those broke it, will not bear the test amongst just men of any party. It is the less excusable, when it is reflected that these rebels in Kansas go there for war. They have not been citizens of Kansas; they voluntarily make themselves such, to take part in open rebellion to the constituted authorities.

It is not to be disguised, that all this disturbance is the work of a party that adopted extraordinary means to accomplish a party purpose. If Emigrant Aid societies had never existed, the people of Kansas might have voted either one or the other on the slavery question, without making a ripple on the surface, in the South, at least.

And all this is justified by the Abolitionists, by what they conceive to be the extraordinary merit of the cause. They assume that all means are justifiable to crush out slavery. To do this, the peace and harmony of the Union will be sacrificed. They have already come to the conclusion that the federal government is not to be trusted; that the cause of freedom, as they call it, requires extraordinary, if not revolutionary effort, and their success would be the signal for distrust and anarchy. They are resolved on correcting what they deem a great evil, by law or by force. The spirit they manifest is unmistakable, their conduct toward Kansas shows that they are restrained by no scruples as to law and order, and no respect for the regular operations of our institutions. The attempt to drag Kansas into the Union upon a bogus constitution, gotten up by a party, shows the extravagance lengths they are ready to go to accomplish their end. It will be fortunate if most of the States repudiate this fanaticism.

Exodus from the Soft-Shell Convention in New York.

We find in the New York papers a protest against the proceedings of the late Soft-Shell Convention of that State, signed by one hundred names that have figured largely in the Soft party in that State. These protestants make their chief corner stone the extirpation of slavery from the territories of the United States generally; and, of course, they are uncompromising in their opposition to the Kansas-Nebraska bill. In short, they occupy the Black Republican ground, and will fall naturally into that party. They undertake to prove, however, and we confess it is not hard to do, that the radical Democrats, as they call their party, have always occupied the ground of hostility to the extension of slavery. They deny that the late Soft Convention at Syracuse represented the sentiments of their party on the subject of slavery. That Convention, it will be remembered, took what is called national ground on the issues before the country, in favor of the Kansas bill, &c.

They appointed delegates to the Cincinnati Convention upon this platform, which is unquestionable. In this, these men deny that the Convention represents the party, and they sustain their position, if we are to judge by a long series of antecedents, all of the same sort. We are obliged to these one hundred men for their expense of themselves. They, at least, have no part or lot in the Cincinnati Convention. How many of their party entertain the same views we can't determine; but we are inclined to think that they do not misrepresent the mass of their party. That many who have noted with the Softs generally are sound and true national men, we have no doubt; but, how many? The late speech of ex-Gov. r. Seymour, who was elected Governor by the Soft party, was a sound statesmanlike production; and doubtless many others of the party concur with him; but what about the mass of the voters? Do they concur with the late Convention at Syracuse, or with the hundred that have signed this address? If with the latter, they may call themselves by what name they please, but their position can't be mistaken at this crisis. They belong to the great Northern sectional party, and have no business to be represented at Cincinnati. If these delegates represent but a fragment of their party, and a small one it is, if these hundred witnesses are correct, they will cut a poor figure in a Democratic Convention. These hundred men bear testimony in favor of the Hards on the slavery question. They recognize the Hards as their antagonists on this subject; and in that, too, they are sustained by the record. On the other hand, it is charged that the Hards have affiliated with the Know-Nothings, and that a number of their delegates to Cincinnati now belong, or did belong, to that party.

A question, then, will arise at Cincinnati, as to what shall be done with the two delegations from New York. The Convention of that place will not tolerate the sectional, or Know-Nothing crowd; but they will find it difficult to determine who represents the national Democrats of New York—the party free from Abolitionism and Know-Nothingism.

On the slavery question the Hards are now about to approach the record in their State, or distract conventions, and in their votes in their own State Legislature. They have at home fought bravely for the institution and the rights of the South. On this account they will command the sympathies of Southern men; but those of them who have gone off to dark-lantern parties, can't expect to affiliate with the national Democracy. We shall see what accounts we shall have at Cincinnati.

The mob organ has discovered that the enterprising business man, Germans, that lately returned from Chicago to Louisville, left here because the liquor traffic was stopped. Now of them left on account of the mob. He would have us readers believe that there was no exodus from this city on account of that bloody day. The absurdity of this is too apparent to deserve any one, Every man in this city knows better. We are assured by the mob organ that Louisville is prodigiously prosperous just now; scores and hundreds are coming—why not say thousands—and the city is enjoying a season of unexpected prosperity. Property-holders and builders, and business men, would like to feel some of the good-tim-a thus heralded; but, unfortunately, they are to be found only in the columns of the Journal, which is a state of things which cannot long exist. There used to be an equalization of prices, and those who made judicious investments in the Western coal fields today at prices ranging from $5 to $10 per acre, according to their apricultural value, but which, if lying in Pennsylvania, a thousand miles further west, would bring $500 to $1,000 per acre. This is an honest man's way of looking at it.

DROWNED—A negro man belonging to Mr. Ferguson was drowned while bathing in the river and the river was soon out of fix for some time. Will the proper person attend to it?

We learn, from the Hopkinsville Press, of the 20th, that the small pox has entirely disappeared, and that the place is now as healthy as it has ever been known.

FIRE—The alarm of fire about two o'clock yesterday morning was caused by the burning of the saw mill of Logan & Stratton, at Jeffersonville. It was owned by Peter Myers, whose loss is about $8,000. No insurance. It is not known how the fire originated.

BLOTTZ—This great magician draws fine houses every night—not with one string, as Paganini did, but with his amazing feats in magic, table rappings, and ventriloquism. If there are any who have not yet seen him, they had better go soon. This is his last week—don't put it off.

FORGE—The Messrs. Ford, of Hawsville, are now supplying steamboats with a first-rate article of coal at six cents. The accommodations for receiving coal from their docks are excellent, and the prompt attention they give to business renders it a convenience and pleasure for steamboaters to dash with them. We learn that some five or six thousand bushels are turned out daily from their mine.

JEFFERSONVILLE AND INDIANAPOLIS RAILROAD—Last Monday the Stockholders of the Jeffersonville Railroad cleared their board of directors for the ensuing year. The following are the new boards: John Barber, A. O. Brown, A. G. W. W., W. E. Culver, Louisville; James Kegwin, W. Mathey, Jas. D. Reed, Samuel H. Peterson, Jeffersonville; M. G. Bright, John M. Price, Madison; D. Ricketts, Edinburgh; J. S. Gibbons, New York.

THE DAILY LEDGER—This sterling Democratic paper, published at New Albany, Indiana, by Messrs. Norman, Morrison & Matthews, comes to us in a beautiful new suit of type.

It is conducted in admirable style—and with an exuberance of Democratic principles, it should be in the hands of every Democrat in the West.

ENTERTAINMENT MUSICAL—In another column of this morning's issue, we publish the programme of the grand concert to be given at Mozart Hall, on Tuesday evening next, by Menter's Cornet Band. We presume it is hardly necessary to advise our friends to be present, since the high reputation of the various artists comprising the troupe will unquestionably fill the Hall to its utmost capacity. It has been the theme of conversation in fashionable circles for several days, and the beauty and elite of the city will be present in such numbers as to leave no vacant seats.

ROBERTSON'S MAIL BAG—One of the mail bags from Louisville east via this city, was stolen on Monday last; from the pavement in front of the Post office. The bag contained a sum of money, the sum of a house on Commerce street, opening a quantity of letters. A party of officers proceeded to the place where the boy had been seen, but when they arrived there, he had gone. The value of the bag was $1,000. Some of the letters contained drafts, but no money has been recovered, nor has it been possible, as yet, to arrive at the amount stolen. —Our Com. 224.

HERMAN TRAUMON—On Wednesday, two weeks ago, two men, named Jas. E. Levy and Simon Hargit, had a difficulty near Nebraska City, in which the former was shot. He survived but a short time.

JOHN G. COOK, N. Y., a man named Cook was shot and instantly killed by a man named Peterson. The difficulty grew out of a quarrel.

JOHN G. WILLIAM WALKER

One of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings ever witnessed in Louisville came of a few days ago. It was hastily called, to give an expression of feeling towards General Wm. Walker, and the cause of Republicanism in Nicaragua. As the private character of General Walker has been assailed by a British herald, through the columns of the New York Tribune, and other papers have done the General the grossest injustice by re-published the lying correspondence, we feel that it is due to him and the noble cause in which he is so gallantly battling, that we should copy the following resolution, passed in his native city, by those who have known him longest and best. The resolution speaks to this point:

Read—That we, the neighbors, friends and acquaintances of Gen. Walker, the distinguished chief of the Republic of Nicaragua, deem the present a fit occasion to declare our high appreciation of his qualities as a man, and to give expression to our feelings of sympathy for the cause in which he is engaged. Born, reared, and educated in our midst, he has ever maintained the character of an honest and honorable man. A graduate of the University of Nashville, and for several years a student at Paris, where he devoted himself to the acquirement of knowledge, his industry, integrity, and his Republican principles, eminently qualify him for the task of regenerating a people cursed with all the evils of a bad government, and a bad society. He has a strong sense of freedom and security under the operation of law and well-defined laws. He left his home and native land without a spot or blemish upon his character, and we, who know him well, feel sure that whatever may be his future career, he will do nothing to tarnish the brightness of his fame.

One of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings ever witnessed in Louisville came of a few days ago. It was hastily called, to give an expression of feeling towards General Wm. Walker, and the cause of Republicanism in Nicaragua. As the private character of General Walker has been assailed by a British herald, through the columns of the New York Tribune, and other papers have done the General the grossest injustice by re-published the lying correspondence, we feel that it is due to him and the noble cause in which he is so gallantly battling, that we should copy the following resolution, passed in his native city, by those who have known him longest and best. The resolution speaks to this point:

Read—That we, the neighbors, friends and acquaintances of Gen. Walker, the distinguished chief of the Republic of Nicaragua, deem the present a fit occasion to declare our high appreciation of his qualities as a man, and to give expression to our feelings of sympathy for the cause in which he is engaged. Born, reared, and educated in our midst, he has ever maintained the character of an honest and honorable man. A graduate of the University of Nashville, and for several years a student at Paris, where he devoted himself to the acquirement of knowledge, his industry, integrity, and his Republican principles, eminently qualify him for the task of regenerating a people cursed with all the evils of a bad government, and a bad society. He left his home and native land without a spot or blemish upon his character, and we, who know him well, feel sure that whatever may be his future career, he will do nothing to tarnish the brightness of his fame.
